Baby Food Blending Tips

- Always consult your pediatrician or local health department on appropriate foods and nutritional needs for your child's age.
- Precook meats completely per USDA guidelines: lsitdoneyet.gov
- For a smoother consistency, steam or boil firm fruits and vegetables for approximately 10-20 minutes or until tender.
- Cool cooked foods thoroughly and chop into small pieces.
- Fill mixing cup, pot or bowl half way then puree foods, adding small amounts of water or cooking liquid to reach the desired consistency.
- As the baby gets older, foods can have a chunkier consistency. Adjust blending accordingly.
- Homemade food is healthier, less expensive and contains no preservatives – you control the ingredients.
